GOSPEL REFLECTION

The journey of the Magi is not just a story of distant travelers, but a revelation of how God draws all peoples to Himself. Guided by a star they do not fully understand, they set out in trust, searching for a king they have never seen. Their path leads first to Jerusalem, a place of power and certainty, yet it is not there that Christ is found. Instead, the light leads them onward—to Bethlehem, to humility, to a child who overturns every expectation of kingship.

Epiphany reveals a God who makes Himself known beyond boundaries of nation, culture, and status. As Isaiah foretells, nations come to the light of the Lord, bringing what they have, not to impress, but to adore. The gifts of gold, frankincense, and myrrh are more than symbols; they are acts of surrender, placing earthly wealth, worship, and even suffering at the feet of Christ. Having encountered Jesus, the Magi do not return the way they came. Obedient to God's warning, they refuse to cooperate with the powers that seek to control or destroy life. Changed by their meeting with the true King, they take another road home. The Gospel invites us to the same response: to seek Christ honestly, to kneel in worship, and to allow our encounter with Him to change the direction of our lives.

The Epiphany of the Lord

Manifestation, Salvation

Epiphany means manifestation. The feast of the Epiphany celebrates Christ being revealed to the whole world. Originally observed as a feast of the Nativity in the Eastern Church and celebrated on January 6, it was later adopted in Rome in the sixth century, Epiphany now crowns the Christmas season. The journey of the Magi from the East to honor Jesus symbolizes the first fruits of the Gentiles, affirming God's universal plan for salvation that embraces all nations and peoples. Their adoration is a sign of the unfolding Christian faith..

Raising the Bar in Catholic Education

How do we hand on the faith in a world that prizes simplicity over depth? Our latest blog explores why Catholic education must be rich, demanding, and intellectually serious—not watered down. From the wisdom of Augustine and Aquinas to insights from Bishop Robert Barron and J.R.R. Tolkien, the article examines how faith formation can truly sustain young people into adulthood.

January 4 St. Elizabeth Ann Seton

The first native-born American to be canonized. Elizabeth was a wife, mother, and educator who founded the Sisters of Charity of St. Joseph's, establishing the first Catholic school system in the United States. We honor her example of devotion and dedication to Christ's mission.

January 7 St. Raymond of Penyafort

A Dominican priest and scholar known for his work in canon law and his deep commitment to the Church. He served as a theologian and confessor to King James I of Aragon and was appointed by Pope Gregory IX to compile and systematize Church law. His life continues to inspire those who seek to serve God through intellectual and spiritual pursuits.

Sunday Smile

In a grammar lesson in eighth grade Mrs. O'Neill said, "Paul, give me a sentence with a direct object."

Paul replied, "Everyone thinks you are the best teacher in the school."

"Thank you, Paul," responded Mrs. O'Neill, "but what is the object?"

"To get the best mark possible," said Paul.
